

Dr. Campbell Talks On Pulp and Paper Today at 5 o'Clock

The clock will turn more than 2,000 years, today, at 5 p.m., when Dr. W. Boyd Campbell, F.R.S., Director of technical research, Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada, delivers the third in the current series of nine lectures sponsored by the institute specially for engineering students, in the Chemistry Building lecture theatre. Although Dr. Campbell's lecture will deal primarily with modern papermaking, the speaker, will actually demonstrate the making of paper by hand, using the primitive methods and elementary wire mould first employed by the Chinese twenty-two centuries ago.

TO ILLUSTRATE TALK

From there, Dr. Campbell will pass on to the giant, intricate paper-making machines of today, and describe at length the various processes involved and the scientific principles applied in modern papermaking. His talk will be illustrated.

A graduate of McGill in chemical engineering, Dr. Campbell was appointed assistant superintendent of the Forest Products Laboratories at the University in 1913. He served in World War I as one of the first instructors in gas warfare. Following the war, he rejoined the Laboratories in 1926. He secured his Ph.D. in physical chemistry in 1929, and has been on the staff of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute ever since.

LECTURES FOR ENGINEERS

The Institute's purpose in sponsoring this series of lectures is to acquaint engineering students with the magnitude of Canada's Pulp and Paper industry, with its different operational activities, and with the opportunities it offers graduate engineers and chemists.

DR. W. BOYD CAMPBELL, F.R.S.C.

Interest has been aroused in the elections by the heated discussions of Council activities which have taken place recently. This is one reason why there should be a good turnout in the voting.

Dr. Cameron Urges Changes

Establishment of psychiatric departments in general hospitals throughout Canada is urged by Dr. D. Ewen Cameron, director of the Allan Memorial Institute of Psychiatry and professor of psychiatry at McGill University, in the current issue of the Canadian Hospital Journal, official mouthpiece of the Canadian Hospital Council.

"Psychiatry in Canada," he states, "is lopsided. If you have a major mental breakdown, you can enter one of the provincial mental hospitals and receive treatment which is at least equal to that obtainable in similar hospitals in any other country.

"But if you are suffering from one of the far more numerous psychoneurotic or psychosomatic illnesses or if you are in the early stages of a major psychiatric breakdown and are unwilling to voluntarily admission or commitment to a provincial mental hospital, your opportunities for modern treatment are limited."

Dr. Cameron claims that the establishment of psychiatric departments in general hospitals will be a

Sophomore Fair Slated To-night

Tonight at 7:00 p.m. in the union second year's contribution to the Arts and Science Week will be featured. The entertainment will be in the form of a country fair with bingo, fortune telling, horse racing, miniature bowling and many other games of chance and skill on the program. The evening although sponsored by the sophomores will be open to all years and faculties.

Among the many attractions will be door prizes of "Orient" nylon stockings and free tickets to the McGill Winter Carnival. Admission to the fair will be ten cents and all tickets will be sold at the door. Beer, hot dogs, cokes and ice cream will be among the refreshments on hand.

Frosh Party Opens A. & S. Week Doin's

By Doreen Fairman and Elizabeth Ann Sumner

Arts and Science Week got off to a good start last night with the First Year Party which was held in the Union.

The evening's activities began with a banquet in Grill Room. The guest speaker was Mr. David M. Legate, a graduate of McGill, and the Editor of "The McGill News." As those present were told by Doug Campbell, President of First Year Arts and Science, Mr. Legate was born in Australia, yet received his university education at McGill University where he produced the Red and White Review for 1926 and 1927, and was also Associate Editor of the McGill Daily for 1927. Later, Mr. Legate shyly admitted that it was in 1927, that he just got his degree. In 1939 Mr. Legate joined the Medical Corps in which he served for six years and attained the rank of Captain.

"It's not the marks you make on paper, but the marks you make in friendship with others that count," maintained Mr. Legate. He classified people into three main types, the cautious type, the courageous type, and the confused type. He illustrated the first two types with anecdotes of people he had met. When illustrating the "confused type," Mr. Legate stated, "The vast majority of humanity are members of this category... I now speak from personal experience."

Among those at the head table were, Doug Campbell, Paul Betts, Bob Gill, Eve Marler, Jean Van Patter, and other members of the Arts Science Undergraduates Society executive.

At the conclusion of the meal, students went up to the Reading Room where song-sheets were distributed, and a sing-song was held. During the singing beer and cokes were consumed by the beer drinkers and tea-totalers respectively.

Between the sing-song and the dance which followed, Barbara Dornbush, singer with the Westminster's Orchestra, and third year Arts student sang "Blue Skies," "I Don't Know Why I Love You Like I do," and "I'm in the Mood for Love."

Recordings supplied the music for dancing which wound up the evening's entertainment.

Balkans Trip Planned Soon

A committee to plan a trip to the Balkans this summer will be elected after the showing of the documentary film "Journey for Peace" today. The film deals with a trip to Yugoslavia taken by the Canadian "Beaver Brigade" last summer and will be shown at five this afternoon in the Union Ballroom.

The "Beaver Brigade" was a mixed group of young Canadians representing various organisations, and including a group of 20 McGill students chosen by the main campus organisations. Their experiences while attending the International Youth Festival at Prague and their participation in the building of Yugoslavia's "Youth Railway" form the main theme of the movie which is equipped with an explanatory sound track.

The film will be preceded by a short address by Jim Johnston, member of the Brigade and acting chairman of the Cosmo Club. His talk will deal with the aims of the film, and with the organisation of a new student tour of the Balkans this summer. Following the movie, interested students will have the opportunity of electing a committee to deal with the formation of a new group.

Debaters Will Vie At Parley

Socialism Is Topic Of Conference For Novice

The McGill Interfaculty Debating League is sponsoring another Debating Conference, open to all McGill students, on Friday, February 13 and Saturday, February 14. All students are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to improve their debating ability, but are advised to register early as numerous latecomers for the last conference had to be turned down.

Following the plan of the last conference, each individual speaker will have the benefit of constructive criticism from a number of critic judges. Students who are attending the series of lectures, "How To Debate", which four McGill professors are currently delivering, will find the Debating Conference an opportunity for applying ing the knowledge they have accorded at these courses, it is pointed out by the organizers.

Pictured above is PAUL ORR, who won high honors last night in the first debate of the I.U.D.L., in which McGill was awarded a unanimous decision over a visiting Ottawa University team. All three judges awarded him top place for both delivery and material. Topic of the debate, which was opposed by the McGill team, was "Resolved that socialism leads inevitably to totalitarianism."

The topic selected is "Resolved that Socialism Leads Inevitably to Totalitarianism." For the purpose of the conference the official definitions of the terms are: Socialism: complete government economic control; Totalitarianism: a government similar to that of Nazi Germany. The philosophical argument that nothing is inevitable is ruled out.

To Debate Three Times

The programme schedule is drawn up so that each participant will debate three times: once on Friday the 13, at 7:15 p.m., and twice on Saturday the 14, at 2:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Following the debating on Saturday, a dinner will be served for all speakers, critic-judges, and chairmen at 6:15 p.m. in the Union. A debate between the two best teams will be held after the dinner.

Each team of two will oppose a

GIVE THAT THEY MAY LIVE! Students at Austria's Innsbruck University eat a meager breakfast of cocoa, semolina soup and a small sandwich before starting the day's classes. This meal, meager though it may seem, would be lacking altogether were it not for donations from Canadian university students, who will be asked this month to give $100,000 to world student relief.

Dr. MacLennan Speaks at 5 p.m.

Philosophy and its relationship to Sociology will be the subject of an address by Professor R. D. MacLennan, head of the McGill Department of Philosophy, to be heard by the Sociological Society at 1 p.m. today in Room 49 of the Arts Building.

Professor MacLennan, who was born in Scotland, received his education at Edinburgh University. He joined the faculty at McGill some ten years ago.

As a student of Plato, Professor MacLennan has long shown a keen interest in the subject. Another philosophical field in which he has become a specialist is that of Ethics.

In his address today to the Sociological Society Professor MacLennan will deal with certain aspects of the philosophical approach and their relationship to the problem of understanding society.

Canadian ISS Donates Food To Austrians

Each morning during three months of this winter, 500 cold and hungry students of the University of Innsbruck in Austria are served a breakfast of cocoa, semolina soup and a 45-gram sandwich before they attend the day's opening lecture. The breakfast is a gift from Canadian university men and women to their comrades-in-learning, who otherwise would go without anything to eat and sit in chilly classrooms until the first meal at 1 p.m. Responsibility for this project was accepted last year by the Canadian Committee of the ISS at a cost of $4,000.

Austria Needs Food

Food is the direst of Austria's present needs, and it is at Innsbruck that the shortage is felt deepest. While students in Vienna received a daily ration of 1,500 calories, rations at Innsbruck fell to 1,200 calories and at one point fell to 800. Last year, World Student Relief, the agency administering ISS funds, directed part of its Austrian shipment to Innsbruck, and in addition, sent half a ton of sugar.

"The general living conditions in Austria have not improved," writes Dr. K. Brunner, Chairman ISS Committee, to the Canadian ISS Committee. "The drought last summer has imperilled our electric supply. Fuel is very short indeed. So far, we are only able to heat our university buildings three days a week, and even then we are forced to heat them just as little as possible to economize on the small coal supply we were able to get."

LITTLE FUEL AVAILABLE

"The lack of fuel and electricity also makes the supply of clothes more difficult than ever. Our textile factories are not working at their full capacity. Even if the raw material should be available it will take some time until the most urgent needs of the population can be supplied. Besides, ex-prisoners of war from Russia and Yugoslavia are now gradually released and are arriving in a pitiful state, so that all our spare supplies of clothing material has to go to them. University professors have been unable to buy new clothes for some eight or nine years. . . . Many students have no winter overcoats and are wearing their old army uniforms, or somehow made up to look like civilian suits.

Laboratory Supplies Scarce

"Another difficulty is study materials. Glassware for laboratories and chemicals of all sorts are difficult to come by."

George W. Spinney, C.M.G., Governor of the University And President of RVH Dies

GEORGE W. SPINNEY, C.M.G., D.C.L.

Financier Was In 59th Year; Heart Attack

George Wilbur Spinney, C.M.G., D.C.L., Governor of the University, President of the Bank of Montreal, and one of the country's leading financiers died suddenly Sunday morning in the Ross Memorial Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital of a heart attack. He was in his 59th year.

Mr. Spinney joined the Board of Governors in January of 1943. He received an honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws for the University of Acadia at a convocation in May of 1942, and was elected President of the Royal Victoria Hospital in April of 1947. The financier had been a governor of the hospital.

A month ago Mr. Spinney entered the Royal Victoria Hospital for a routine check-up and while there had a heart attack. He was ordered to take a complete rest and appeared to be making steady progress toward recovery. On Saturday morning, however, he had a relapse and died at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Victory Loan

Chairman of the First Victory Loan in June of 1941, he became chairman of the National War Finance Committee in October, 1941, and remained at the head of the committee until August of 1943, when he resigned because of pressure of other responsibilities and was made honorary chairman. At that time Hon. J. L. Isley, Minister of Finance, said the success of the committee's actions in each of the four loans "has, in large measure, been due to his (Mr. Spinney's) very great abilities."

CHARITY LEADER

A member of the executive committee of the Children's Memorial Hospital, he was chairman of a campaign which raised $1,169,000 for that hospital in 1939 and in 1929 was chairman of the Federated Charities campaign in Montreal. For four years, 1939 to 1943, he was vice-president of the Canadian Born's Association.

Born in Yarmouth, N.S., on April 3, 1889, he was educated at public school there and at Yarmouth Academy.

BANK OF MONTREAL

His start with the Bank of Montreal was at Yarmouth in 1906 and in succession then he served the bank at Edmundston, N.B., Quebec, Hamilton and Montreal with his appointment as secretary to the general manager at head office coming in 1915. Since then his positions with the bank have been: Assistant to the General Manager (1922); assistant general manager (1928); general manager (1938); and president (1942).

McGill Leaders Pay Tribute To Great Canadian Citizen

Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, said: "Mr. George Spinney was one of those great personalities who inspired with confidence all those who were their associates. The outstanding contribution that he made to the war effort of this Dominion; his presidency of the Royal Victoria Hospital, his service as a member of the Board of Governors of McGill and his many other activities are evidence both of his rich ability and of the high affection in which he was held."

"We shall miss him deeply in the days that lie ahead, remembering how much easier and more pleasant life seemed when we worked beside him."

Chief Justice O. S. Tyndale, chancellor of McGill University, said that Mr. Spinney's eminence in banking circles and outstanding service to Canada as a whole during the past decade were such that his premature death should cause a profound sense of loss throughout the Dominion.

As Chancellor of McGill University, said the Chief Justice, "I wish to pay special tribute to the invaluable assistance he rendered as a member of the Board of Governors of the University. With his wide experience, his keen penetrating mind and his broad human outlook he contributed greatly to the solution of our many problems."

George H. Montgomery, K.C., chancellor of Bishop's University, Lennoxville, "The death of George Spinney will come as a great shock to all who knew him or knew of him. Others will speak of his public services in the war effort in which his work was outstanding and invaluable. Those who had the privilege of knowing him personally will remember him as a man endowed with peculiar personal charm and magnetism. Canada and the financial community can ill afford to lose one who possessed so many and such vocational talents."

Quarter Latin, January 27. Open Letter by Lionel Desert.

"Dear Friend: 'Your state of mind will surprise no outsider who has lived a few years in the U.S. The immature North American philosophy of life explains many mistakes and the lack of happiness one sees on the U.S. scene. Although history denies its conquering value these days, North Americans expect to smash ideas with the strength of wealth. That policy remains the attitude of a well-to-do trying childishly to win the faithfulness of a woman with expensive gifts."

The emotional instability (we want something new, something different, something exciting) that characterizes the North American soul and is wrecking so many homes made up of U.S. boys and girls, educated by the same teachers, in the same schools, and intellectually fed up with the same books, proves the inadequacy of the North American philosophy of life to deal with the problems related to human nature.

North American parents, by allowing their children (at an early age from foreign standard) to behave like full-grown adults in order to develop what they call initiative, and escape what they call frustrations, are merely molding future "blasés". Indeed, experiments have proven that a young mind given too early to freedom will turn uninhibited, unsatisfied, unhappy.

... the national disease of the U.S. is a product of this freedom... the ten million victims of mental ailments in the U.S. may be considered as a national curse...

The increasing number of books, movies, social conversations which gravitate around psychiatry, reveals the existence of a national conscience troubled by the mental diseases question.

... They ought to learn to understand that happiness is a state of mind, resulting from the research of spiritual values and intellectual delight."

We quoted most of this letter, written by Lionel Desert to an American friend, which letter is typical of a school of thought adhered to by many in un-American territories.

Space Travel Meeting Topic

Travel through space will be discussed from a theoretical point of view at today's meeting of The McGill Science Fiction Society. Taking place in the New Room of the Union, the society's twelfth and first open meeting of this session will start at 8:30 p.m.

Under the title of "Rockets and Space Travel", the principal item of the meeting will be introduced by Basil A. Rattray, fourth year honors Mathematics at McGill.

The speaker will outline the evidence pointing to the possibility of space travel; the progress being made in rocketry; and calculations he has made concerning the flight of a rocket-ship through space.

The topic will then be opened for general discussion amongst those present with Mr. Rattray acting as moderator and discussion leader.

Before the introduction of the main item, the society's business will be tabled and discussed. Business items on the agenda are three reports; election of two new executive members; and the coming Science Fiction Convention at Toronto.

GEORGE W. SPINNEY

McGill students are not directly aware of the loss the University has suffered in the death of George Wilbur Spinney, late governor of McGill University and president of The Royal Victoria Hospital.

To the average student, the post of governor of a university seems somewhat remote and foreign in their contacts with the academic part of the university. Yet in spite of the apparent ignorance of the student towards the activities of the Board of Governors, there is no doubt concerning the immense value the university receives from these experienced men of the business world.

It is to them we must give our thanks for the bountiful facilities McGill can offer us, in view of the fact that the cost of education far outweighs the fees collected from the students.

Chancellor O. S. Tyndale paid sincere tribute to the late Mr. Spinney, expressing the University's loss. He said in part "I wish to pay special tribute to the invaluable assistance he rendered as a member of the Board of Governors of the University. With his wide experience, his keen penetrating mind and his broad human outlook he contributed greatly to the solution of our many problems."

Although he aided greatly in the affairs of McGill, the whole nation experienced a loss that was made known through its governmental leaders, Prime Minister King and others. For they knew how great was the debt the Canadian people owed to this man.

When World War II was declared in 1939, the government of Canada turned to the Montreal banker for the chairmanship of the National War Finance Committee. His leadership of this body has been described as a "triumph of organization." The success of the numerous war loan campaigns owed much to his organizing ability and untiring work.

In Montreal the Federated Charities sought and received his leadership, while his services to the Children's Memorial Hospital and Royal Victoria Hospital were given with the same generous disregard for his own well-being as had his efforts been eagerly given to Canada in her time of need.

He was always the last to complain that too much was being placed on his shoulders; and once when addressing a student gathering here, he said: "I am old-fashioned enough to believe that work is not only to be regarded as a means of sustenance, but it must be treated as an essential to true happiness."

In the words of Principal F. Cyril James "Mr. George Spinney was one of those personalities who inspired with confidence all those who were their associates. The outstanding contribution that he made to the war effort of this Dominion; his presidency of the Royal Victoria Hospital; his services as a member of the Board of Governors of McGill and his many other activities are evidence both of his rich ability and high affection in which he was held."

DAWSON'S ELECTION

Dawson students go to the polls again today. The office to be filled is that of President of the Dawson Students' Council, a body whose recent activities brought about a vote of confidence at a General Meeting held last night. This position of President was left vacant after the Christmas holidays following the untimely death of Bob Muskatov, who was elected to the post last fall.

Since the beginning of this term the Council has repeatedly shown the need of a good leader to advise on details of procedure and courses of action on the different issues with which the Council has been faced. Also a great deal of confidence could be instilled into the Council with the election of a president by a majority of ALL the students. A president who knows he has the whole of the student body behind him, rather than just taking over office through an election with only half of the students voting, will be able to do much more for the student body being guaranteed of their support.

Interest in Council business has been at an alltime high these past two weeks with two general meetings in seven days, and Dawsonites can really show the Council that they are very much concerned in their own affairs by turning out "en masse" today to vote. Every student can take five minutes off to go down to the gym and fill out their ballot and, no matter which of the three gets in, give a good, solid voting majority to back him up on his decisions.—R.U.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Withdrawal

Editor, McGill Daily,
 Montreal, Que.,
 Dear Sir,

Through the use of your column I would like to announce the withdrawal of my nomination for the post of President of the Students Society of Dawson College, in favor of J. A. Higgins, past president of the S.E.C. of Sir George Williams College.

The following are my reasons for running for president and for withdrawing from the race: In view of the many changes recently made, it was the council's wish that a capable student, with a full knowledge of student affairs, run for president, so that the council may efficiently continue its work, without any further delay. My second reason was to prevent any subversive element in gaining control by being elected by acclamation.

Fortunately, a student named John Higgins, whose ideas and principles are in agreement with mine and I believe with that of the whole student body, presented himself. Since he is a person whom I sincerely believe to be equally capable as myself, I believe that in the interests of all students that it would be better if both of us were to be on the Students Council. For this main reason, I thus withdraw my nomination in favor of Higgins.

I would also like to thank all my supporters and those who nominated me for the second time since last November.

Sincerely yours,
 PAUL CULLEN,
 Pres. Arts and Science,
 Dawson College.

Unfair

Dawson College,
 St. Johns. Que.
 Jan. 28,
 McGill Daily Editor,
 Dear Sir,

In the past it has been my impression that the members of the Dawson Students Council were elected by the students as their representatives. This did not mean that the students should then show no further interest in campus affairs. It was in order for the student body to criticize their executive and, if necessary, to call a general meeting.

Recently a petition of over fifty students called such a general meeting in order to question the efficiency of the present Council. Immediately the Students' Council through the medium of the Dawson Weekly—"The Official Voice of the Students' Council"—termed this action as moronic, and slanderous remarks were made to members of former councils who naturally are still interested in campus affairs.

Therefore it seems obvious that our present council discourages any criticism of their affairs. I sincerely hope that in the very near future Dawson students who do show sufficient interest in campus affairs will not be accused of "Subversive Activities" or trying "To control student activities."

Sincerely,
 DALE KING, B.Sc. II

Answer

The Editor,
 McGill Daily.
 Dear Sir:

Apparently Dawson College must be awakening student interest in order to rate such editorial prominence as appeared in the belated snowbound January 29 issue.

Mr. Usher's article was well-written but the facts were not presented in their true light. I was correct, for instance, in stating that the meeting was not properly conducted? Mr. Beattie, unlike the majority of students, was well acquainted with the rules of procedure and it is my opinion that he did an excellent job of controlling an audience that contained an element sparring for a fight. The Chairman's consultation with his committeemen was not unethical unless you are going to split hairs and insist that messages be written down. He was in order despite R. U.'s interpretation of its implications. As regards the use of a microphone, more power to Mr. Beattie who had the foresight to employ a modern means of controlling a meeting.

Finally, the charges which Mr. Usher stated were supposed to have been brought up to the council were never presented until they were read out at the actual meeting (read in such a way as to try to prevent the true answer being brought out.)

Signed:
 PAUL CULLEN,
 President, A & S.

MONTREAL ARTISTS' SCHOOL

Visited by Sy Yasin

In an unimposing house on McKay St., just a few steps from busy St. Catherine, is located the Montreal Artist's School, the city's newest school of commercial and fine arts. The school opened in 1946 with four students. Today there are almost 50 people attending the day and evening courses offered by the M.A.S.

Lectures at the school are informally conducted. There is, however, careful preparation given to the lectures, and a vast program covering every phase of art is dealt with during the 8 month school term.

Every morning of the week is devoted to a life class, which all day students attend. Here the aspiring artists spend their time sketching models who pose for lengths of time varying from 1 minute to three hours, depending on the type of exercise assigned. Two instructors are on hand to guide the students. Great liberty is allowed the student, who may express his or her impressions of the subjects in which ever way he is inclined. "We study the style of the individual student and attempt to help him within his own particular point of view," Alfred Pinksky, co-founder of the school, told me: "In this way all our students retain their individuality on canvas."

In the afternoon session the students break up into two groups, those who intend to make the field of commercial art their life work, and those who fall into the category called fine art students. At the commercial art class once again the student is given a free hand. They are allowed to develop their own ideas with an instructor circulating from one desk to another suggesting improvements on material and technique. The majority of students here are veterans all of whom are married. "We would like to devote more time to fine arts," Hal Magel, an RCAF veteran from Vancouver said, "but DVA does not consider our course as academic, and as a result we are only allowed two years in grants and have to learn everything we can about commercial art during this limited time."

At the fine arts class the afternoons are devoted to the study of the history of art, discussions groups, and one afternoon a week is devoted to criticism by the student body of their own work. Every now and then Principal Ghilla Calmerman sends the students out to various parts of the city to record their impressions of life in Montreal. Then these sketches are brought back to the school where they are judged by the instructors and plans are formulated to transfer the drawings onto canvas for painting. Most of the students devote their evenings to painting at home, thought some return to the school and others like Bill Charad and Joe Pressman "chip in" to rent a little studio "so that we won't have to mess up the house."

I noticed a rare "esprit de corps" among the students at the Montreal Artist School. Their enthusiasm is very high and their praise on the way the school is conducted knows no bounds. Many have attended art schools elsewhere but they like the idea of being allowed to develop their own technique.

It was impossible for me to talk to all the students at the Montreal Artists' School, I however, took a special interest in the veterans studying there. Mr. Carl Rix of Vienna who devotes most of his time to instructing the commercial art class told me he was very impressed with the seriousness and aptitude displayed by them towards their art. "D.V.A. would be doing much to destroy the growth of a truly Canadian Art if they stop the allowance of these boys this coming summer as they intend to."

I spoke to Jack Alexander of Redcar Yorkshire who has been painting "as far back as I can remember." Jack came to Canada in 1940 but returned to England with the R.C.A.F. during the war with No. 6 Bomber Group. His fondness for this country decided him to make his home in Canada. During his spare time Jack does cartooning for the Montreal Standard under the name of "Tick." "Canada has some great cartoonists, unfortunately most of their work finds its way to the United States where they can receive almost twice as much for a cartoon as they would over here."

Another vet studying commercial art at M.A.S. is Vic Runtz. Vic is editor of the Canadian Cartoonist, monthly organ of the Canadian Cartoonist Association, his cartoons have been published in many papers across the country including the McGill Daily. He was high in his praise of cartoons which appear in University newspapers and considers the Daily's Gordie Kearns as one of the finest and most promising young artists in this field.

The only woman student present in the commercial art class while I was there was pretty Dorothy Goldstein. Dorothy is a part-time student at the school but hopes to be able to start attending school full time soon. Dorothy's interest lies in the advertising field, and left a toothpaste ad.

In the office I stopped to speak to spirited, dark-haired Roslyn Scheinfeld. Roslyn is 17 years and has been interested in art "since I was young". Roslyn graduated from Strathcona Academy last year and has been at the School for several months. "I find that I am now getting an intellectual appreciation of Art as well as an aesthetic one" she told me "I'm taking fine art this year but I guess I'll have to switch to Commercial soon because there's not much future in fine art" she said wistfully with the air of a true martyr.

Most impressive was the work of Joe Pressman who comes from Winnipeg. Joe unlike the others intends to continue his study of fine art. Joe's work created quite a stir in local circles when it was exhibited recently.

All the students at the Montreal Artist's School hope to remain in Canada after completion of their courses. Some however were pessimistic as to whether they will be able to continue with their work here. "Opportunities in Art are still greatly limited in this country and after all we've got to eat," they said.

"Who said: 'Neither a borrower nor a lender be'?"

"Me - after you used up my second pack of Sweet Caps!"

DAVIDSON RECITAL

Tudor Hall was filled to capacity on Saturday afternoon, January 31, for the recital of Violinist Arthur Davidson, L.R.S.M. Mr. Davidson, who has already performed in Montreal, fully merited the excellent ovation which he received.

Mr. Davidson chose to open his recital with Schubert's "Sonatina No. 3 in G minor", one of three works which Schubert wrote for violin. The performance of this composition was marred only by over-loud accompaniment which tended to distract the listener from the more melodious passages of the four movements.

Although Mr. Davidson's interpretations of more spirited works such as "Danse Espagnol" (La Vida Breve) by de Falla-Kreisler and Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 1" were certainly adequate, his performances of selections of slower tempo and more romantic nature excelled. These included "Romance" from the "Violin Concerto No. 2 in D minor" and "Quavik", both by Wieniawski, and Ravel's "Pavane", which Mr. Davidson played with all the feeling which this familiar work demands.

The rest of the program consisted of the stately "Loure" by Bach, Vieuxtemps' "Reverie", the "Aubade Provinciale" by Couperin-Kreisler, and Perraull's delicate "Reflets". Mr. Davidson is to be praised for his excellent presentation of these compositions, which, except for the "Loure", were of a lyrical romantic nature.

Mr. Davidson played three encores including a short composition by Ibert entitled "The Little White Donkey."

Accompanying Mr. Davidson was pianist Edna-Marie Hawkins. Except for the fact that Miss Hawkins was inclined to play too loudly during the performance of the "Sonatina", her accompaniments were delivered precisely and well. Mr. Davidson will give another recital this Saturday afternoon, February 7, at Tudor Hall.—G.C.

Paris Ballet

The Stars of the Paris Opera Ballet under the direction of M. Roger Fenonjols will give a matinee performance this Saturday, Feb. 6, at Plateau Hall. This is a student performance and should be of particular interest to all those who have followed the progress of this enterprising group. M. Fenonjols, M. Sellaer, Mlle Parent and Mlle Ivannoff will present a group of distinctive works which range from athletic Cossack dances to the more highly developed pantomime of the Coppelia Ballet suite.

Tickets are priced at .50, .75, $1.00 and $1.25 and are obtainable at Willis, Archambault's, Lindsay's, and 4061 Mentana street, or by phoning CH. 7190.

Red Cagers Top Ecuadorians 45-37 With Late Rally

Davidon Garners 17 As Locals Subdue Stubborn Visitors

By SENOR SHILLER

Spanish: Lesson 1: Translate: "We Was Robbed" That was the cry of the University of Ecuador touring cagers last night when they dropped a 45-37 decision and a beautiful silver loving cup to the McGill senior intercollegiate hoopers in the aftermath of a Carnival of Basketball at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. In the opener Champlain College drubbed Y.M.H.A. 54-34.

The visitors could not understand the referees decisions concerning pushing and charging fouls against them and at one point threatened to leave the floor. These rules are very well covered in the English version of the rules and there wasn't much doubt among those in the know.

The Redmen won on sheer drive and opened up by working in the half smoothly and opening up a 6 point lead and were able to surge ahead, whenever the Ecuadorians threatened. The score was even at 35-35, with six minutes to go, but the Ryan Raiders put on a smart finishing spurt to cop the verdict going away.

Davidon Sparkles George Davidon lived up to his tag of "McGill's Dazzling Davidon" as he potted 17 points while playing a strong defensive game to boot. Sammy Roth turned in one of his best performances this year as he found the range from the side of the basket and was good for 12 markers. Bobby Duford showed his usual sparkle and light and netted an even 9 points. Bud Fraser played a heads up game to aid the cause and took down more than his share of rebounds.

For the Ban Butler coached hoopers, Fortunato Munoz delighted the 2,000 onlookers by his unorthodox style of playing that was good for a baker's dozen. Munoz made solo forays into scoring territory by smart dribbling and at an opportune moment took a kangaroo leap into air to score by a under-hand shot. Vaca and Moran were next best for the losers with a half dozen points each.

Summary: Ecuador 37, Orellana, Salvador, Munoz, 13, Vaca 6, Moran 2, Guerrero 3, Moran 6, Estralla 3, Garcia 3, Aparicio 1. McGill 45, Davidon 17, Fraser 4, Goldbloom 2, Duford 9, Bloom 1, Roth 12, Wilson, Atkin.

Whip Varsity NDG, Loyola Drop Dawson Cage Squads

By Ed. MacDonald

Friday night a pepped-up Dawson Intermediate squad invaded NDG. "Y" gym for a scheduled intermediate M.B.L. basketball tilt. The Dawsonites played spirited ball for the first half, but fell apart in the second stanza and wound up on the wrong end of a 49-20 count.

The Dawson boys commanded the play in the first half, but inaccurate shooting kept them from running up a high score, time and again they swarmed all around the west-enders basket, but they couldn't get the old sphere into the NDG. "Y" boys applied the pressure and the Red and Blue crowd succumbed to their old habit of panicking in the clutches, with the usual results.

Ron Benn led the Dawson scoring parade with 10 points, proving himself the only reliable shot on the team. The Dawson C.I.A.U. basketball squad has acquired itself a jinx. In league play thus far, the Dynamos have tasted defeat twice, both times at the hands of the Loyola five. The latter, strangely enough, has won only two games, both against Dawson. The jinx was fortified last Saturday when Loyola played host (Continued on Page 4)

Technicalities

Editor, McGill Daily. Dear Sir: I wish to bring your attention, Mr. Editor, to the inevitable printing mistakes which pollute whenever a French-written editorial comes out. This is undoubtedly due to a lack of appropriate supervision in the technical procedure of editing the McGill Daily. Adequate attention paid in that regard would clear our paper of all "boners" showing in French-written articles. Our Daily (which is not a high-school newspaper) represents knowledge and a try to perfection. This does not apply only to the writer of the editorial, but all the way down to the last linotype operator. Sincerely yours, P. DENIS.

BASKETBALL

The co-ed cagers kept their undefeated record this week when the Juniors took on Marianopolis College last Tuesday night, and won 48-7. High scorers of the evening were hilda Bailey, Pat Waterston, and Carrie Brodie. Edith Ashton and Roberta Tyler, two tall guards, kept the opponents out of their scoring area. On Saturday the farmerettes and their cohorts out at Mac came in to the Currie Gym. McGill came out tops in both games. The Senior teams have finished their league schedule, and will now be playing exhibition games to keep in trim for the inter-collegiate games come the end of February. The Junior team has two more games with Sir George's, one next Monday evening in the Currie Gym.

BADMINTON

The Inter-section Singles Badminton Tournament finished last week. Betty Evans came out tops, after putting down P. A. MacFarlane to become the Singles Champion, both played "strategic" games. Another star player in the tournament was Mary Tucker, who was edged out by P. A.

SWIMMING

There is a meet with Mac on the 7th at 3 o'clock in the YWCA pool. There will be breast stroke, side stroke, free style, free style, back stroke, as well as a relay, 2 stunt races and diving.

McGill will probably be entering a team in the Duranleau Trophy at the end of the month and the team still has to be picked. As well as this Bill Dempsey has donated an ornamental swimming trophy which will be contested for in March, but more about this later.

ARCHERY

The inter-section Archery takes place this afternoon from 2 to 5 in the Rifle Range. The second part of the tournament takes place on Thursday from 3 to 5.

DAWSON SPORTS

HOCKEY

By Ed MacDonald

On Saturday night the Dawson B's balanced off the hockey books by dropping a scheduled C.I.A.U., hockey tilt to Sir George Willam's by a 9-0 count, after the "A" team had beaten MacDonald College 4-3 in an earlier game.

The Red and Blue squad lacked co-ordination on their plays, and failed to capitalize on many chances around the goal. The play was evenly divided throughout most of the game. The Georgians countered all their tallies after the 16-minute mark of the first period and before the half-way mark in the second canto. It was at these times that the Red and Blue squad looked weak on defensive play. The free-wheeling Georgians broke through a shaky defence time and time again and had the score keeper in a high state of panic for several hectic minutes.

Johnny Macdonald was by far the best performer on the Dawson squad, playing a stellar game on defence, an none of the scoring was done while he was on the ice. The Dawsonites were short-handed for the game, as only nine of the fifteen squad members turned out. This put an extra load on the faithful nine, with a result that towards the end of the game most of the Dawson players were practically out on their feet.

Leading the Georgian attack were Fortier and Manning, each getting three goals and an assist. The other three counters were off the sticks of Forbes, Gibson and Allen. The game was rugged and fast but only two penalties were handed out, both to the Georgians in the second period.

INTRA-MURAL HOCKEY

By George Stephens

The groaners took over first place in the Dawson Intra-mural Hockey league last Thursday, by defeating the luckless Safecrackers 5-1. The game was not as one-sided as the score might indicate however. The Safecrackers displayed considerable form, but were not able to organize their offensive. The Groaners on the other hand capitalized on numerous two-man breaks, and were deadly accurate in their shooting and passing around the opponents' nets.

Bob Leslie was the scoring star of the evening with three smart goals to his credit, and he played a strong checking game as well. Bill Myers was a standout on the defence for the Groaners, while his superb rushing earned him a goal and several assists. Doug Oatman scored the fifth goal for the winners and played a good all-round game, along with "Killer" Sam Booth.

Starring for the Safecrackers was goaler Gaudet, who played a really stellar game until forced to retire with a bad cut at the start of the third period. Ben Nyeste substituted in the last period and showed up well. Shaus played well on defence for the losers, and Currie, McMillan, and Taylor shone up front, with the former scoring his team's only goal.

Gelineau Leads Intercollegiate Goal Tenders

Jack Gelineau, McGill's great twine-minder, moved into the lead among senior intercollegiate goalers when he chalked up his initial shut-out of the season on Friday. Jack has now allowed 25 tallies to slip by in eight games while Toronto's Don Saunders has watched 22 pass him in the same period. Gelineau's average is now 2.50 and Saunders's is 2.75.

Among the scorers, Jack Millar retains the top position with five markers and six assists while Captain Cy Beigler continues to hold down second place with six counters and three helpings. Reg Sinclair's two goals Friday night moved him into third position in the race. He now has half a dozen goals to his credit and a pair of assists.

WARD MOVES UP

Ward Pittfield made the biggest gain of the week as he added two tallies and a single assist to his record. Ward's total is now seven points. He has dented the twines four times and served up passes for scores on three occasions.

Mike Fischer is still "Bad Man" of the squad, having served 31 minutes in the sin-bin. Surprisingly enough, Pittfield is second in this department with 22 minutes in the cooler.

Battling Beigler

By DICK JOSEPH

Travel weary voyagers who sleep soundly on the CNR run between Montreal and Toronto probably do not realize it, but their slumberous tranquility is due partly to the efforts of one, Cyril Ignatius Beigler, second year civil engineering student at McGill and captain of that institution's hockey team. For Cy, when not engaged in making the road rough and rocky for opposing goaltenders during the winter, spends the warmer leisure months smoothing the roadbed along Canada's most used stretch of track.

Ignatz, as he is called by linemate and inseparable friend Jack Millar, did not of course do all the work himself, but was just another member of a team, which is closely analogous to his puck-chasing endeavors. Even though he occupies the slightly exalted position of captain, he is one of the best team players on the club, which is probably the reason he gained this honor in his first full season with the Redmen.

BURNED BADLY

Cy took the long way around to get to McGill, and considers himself lucky to be playing hockey at all. In the summer of 1942, he was caught and severely burned in a gasoline fire that rendered him hors de combat for six months. This not only nearly finished his hockey career, but caused him to be discharged from the American Naval Air Corps, a service in which he was very keen to stay.

When displaced from the service of his choice, Cy joined the RCAF and did a tour with Coastal Command as a pilot. He played only a little hockey while in the service, and as a result when he got to McGill, had a few loose ends to gather up. These he quickly collected and was a very welcome addition to the 1946 championship team, when it seemed to be faltering. He played on defence on this squad, and was a great asset with his driving spirit and blistering shot.

MEMBER OF "MILK LINE" Prior to his appearance with the Redmen, Beigler is primarily noted for his connection with the "milk line." This was a trio that was imported from the west by Dick Irvin in the fall of 1939, when the Canadians were starting on their rebuilding program. Besides Beigler there was Kenny Smith, at present with the Boston Bruins, and the late Red Tilson who was killed overseas. They earned their strange nickname because their average age was only eighteen which is rather young for the National Hockey League.

After his trial with the Habs, Cy went to his home town Regina and then later to the Boston Olympics in the Eastern United States League as the property of the New York Americans. He spent three successful seasons with this club and then signed up for the big game in the spring of 1942.

HAIRS FROM WEST

Hailing from the broad open spaces of the West, Cy still considers it his home despite many winters in the East. When he finally gets his degree from McGill, he hopes to return to the land of the goopher and the chinook and build bigger and better railroad beds. He still however has two more seasons of good intercollegiate hockey left after this one, and if he has four championship jackets hanging in his closet with the sheepskin it will suit him perfectly.

Uncle Bugles (a name acquired when it was misspelled by the St. Hyacinthe program makers) in all his puckchasing career, has only been on one club that did not win a title and that was the Red and White of last year. Otherwise he boasts a perfect record all the way from bantam right up the line to senior hockey. With his inspirational leadership, it is not hard to see how his clubs always managed to come out on top.

HER NEW ENGINE has given the "Suzy M." a new lease on life. Now she gets out to the fishing grounds in double-quick time, and the hours saved mean her daily catch is just that much bigger.
A bank loan made all the difference. And the extra money Suzy's owner is making will soon pay off the cost of the engine.
Local bank managers along Canada's coasts are eager to help their neighbours catch fish, by making bank credit available for the purchase of engines, nets and other gear. Not only do they take care of funds left in their charge but they also supply credit to local businessmen, sawmill operators, farmers, people in every walk of life.

THIS IS ONE INSTANCE OF how Canada's 3,200 branch banks play their part in the daily life and work of Canadians.

They have been accepted to membership on the College Board of Mademoiselle, The Magazine For Smart Young Women, and will be competing with over 800 college girls from 46 states for the exciting prize of a month's work in the New York offices of the magazine.

In order to qualify for the prize each member must submit three assignments during the course of a year, in which they report on college activities and current campus trends and the 20 who excel, will be presented with the coveted award of a month's work in Mademoiselle's New York offices. Council Answers Questions At Dawson Meeting Last Night

A general meeting of the Dawson Students' Society was held last night in Theatre I. Before the regular business of the meeting, an election rally was held at which each of the three nominees for the office of Dawson Students' Society President gave his platform.

The meeting opened at 7 p.m. with Vice-president, George Beattie in the chair. There was probably a quorum of over 300 at the beginning of the meeting, but during the discussion before the general business, many of the students walked out. Thus by the time that a vote of confidence was about to be placed on the floor, only two hundred and forty students were present. Because of the lack of a quorum, this vote of confidence couldn't be called and thus the purpose of the meeting was not accomplished.

With some one hundred interested students present, however, the Council answered sheet of questions put forward by Mr. J. E. Durocher, dealing with the leaving of the former secretary-treasurer, the cost of the Dawson Weekly, the honorary membership of the Council members in the Dawson Key Society, and several questions dealing with Canteen and Snack Bar prices and staff. A last question dealt with just what each of the Council members had done towards fulfilling their campaign platform promises.

The resignation of the secretary-treasurer was run over as in the McGill Daily editorial of last Thursday, while the cost of the Dawson weekly was found to be three dollars a week up to the last issue when the advertisement contracts ended.

As to the question pertaining to why the Students Council should have the power to make themselves honorary members of the student-elected Dawson Key Society, chairman George Beattie answered that since the said duties of the Council and the Dawson Key Society were parallel, the Council had "accepted the proposal" of becoming honorary "Key" members.

Canteen Chairman Conrad answered the question concerning the Canteen and Snack Bar capably. The gathering was broken up before the Council members could get around to answering the last question concerning platforms.
